Clinical Supervision of the Registered Counselling Therapist-Candidate: Enhancing Professional Development via Establishment of a Framework for Informed Supervision

With the 2011 inauguration of the Nova Scotia College of Counselling Therapists, the demand for qualified supervisors has been increasing as graduates of counselling programs apply for candidacy with NSCCT and seek the post-degree supervision required to earn the Registered Counselling Therapist designation. This one-day workshop has been designed to offer a framework to inform best supervision practices for those who may be interested in offering supervision to Registered Counselling Therapist- Candidates, as well for those already supervising Candidates. Participants are encouraged to become familiar with the Canadian Counselling and Psychotherapy Association Code of Ethics and Standards of Practice, both of which are available for purchase or digital download from the CCPA website at <https://www.ccpa-accp.ca/ethics/>.
